Prerequisites for this course: Econ 3070 and Econ 3080. Knowledge of microeconomics, macroeconomics, and international trade and finance is helpful. Students with a background in economics or political science will find this course particularly interesting.

Objective of the Course:

The course will examine the political economy of the Middle East, focusing on the role of oil, the impact of international trade and finance, and the political and economic development of the region. The course will also discuss the role of the state in the economy and the impact of globalization on the Middle East.

The course has several objectives:

First, to provide a comprehensive overview of the political economy of the Middle East, including the role of oil, international trade and finance, and the political and economic development of the region.

Second, to examine the role of the state in the economy and the impact of globalization on the Middle East.
